UDIA Recognises Michael Scott

The Urban Development Institute of Australia (UDIA) has awarded long time industry leader Michael Scott with the inaugural Allen Vogan Distinguished Service Award.

Named after UDIA's first National President, the Allen Vogan Distinguished Service Award recognises individuals who have shown exceptional commitment and dedication, and have provided long time, distinguished service to the Australian development industry.

"Michael Scott is a very deserving recipient of this prestigious award," said UDIA National President Cameron Shephard.

"His service to the Australian development industry stretches back more than 30 years, during which time he worked tirelessly on projects across Australia, and served as a Councillor and President of both UDIA NSW and UDIA National.

"Michael was also chosen for his determination to apply his knowledge and skills to benefit of the wider community.

"Since beginning his career, he's had a major focus on housing affordability, and his constant work in this area has led to outstanding outcomes across a broad range of projects.

"On behalf of UDIA, I would like to congratulate Michael on receiving this award and thank him for his dedication and commitment to the Australian development industry over the years,"

The Urban Development Institute of Australia is the nation's peak property industry body. It advocates for responsible planning; timely and affordable housing, and the building of vibrant communities to increase local job opportunities.
