New UDIA Life Member

The Urban Development Institute of Australia (UDIA) has awarded Ian Marker National Life Membership, in recognition of his service to UDIA and the development industry. The announcement was made at the 2016 UDIA Rivergum Homes Group National Awards For Excellence in Adelaide on Thursday 10 March.

Ian Marker is the Chief Executive of privately-owned property development company Adelaide Development Company (ADC) and its sister company, Estates Development Company (EDC) in Western Australia.

Mr Marker has been working in the development industry since the mid-1980's and has taken roles with ADC, Maunsell Australia (now part of the AECOM group) and AV Jennings. He began working with the UDIA over 10 years ago and he has subsequently served in a variety of roles including South Australian President, South Australian Treasurer, National Councillor, National Secretary and more recently National Vice President.

"Ian Marker is a remarkable person who has given many years of selfless dedication to UDIA and the Australian urban development industry," said UDIA National President, Michael Corcoran.

"I am truly honoured to congratulate such a highly deserving individual for receiving UDIA National Life Membership."
